

'ROUND 'N' 'ROUND

Now that Nibs Price has resigned, the question before the house is, "who is going to coach the University of California next season?"

Of course Knute Rockne will be the first man that gossip will suggest. Maybe even Pop Warner, who knows?

If Knute should come to California, the Bears would be on the football map within a short time.

Come to think about it, there are only about 23 more shopping days left until Christmas. As usual, however, the majority of people in this fair city, as in every other town in the nation, will wait until the last minute before buying a red necktie for Uncle Sam, a handkerchief for Aunt Min and a football for the small brother.

In buying Christmas presents there is something that tells you that it was worthwhile and makes you wish that you had given something better.

And Thanksgiving comes around tomorrow. Which means that the editorial and mechanical staff of this newspaper will enjoy a holiday too. And which also means that there will not be a paper Friday morning.

And it also means that the Gallipoli Gaels will play their first game since their return from the east. The Marauding Moragans will meet with the Oregon team at Kezar stadium.

California In Search For Coach To Replace 'Nibs'

GUARDS KEEP MOTHER OUT OF HOUSE

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 25.—UP.—The burly guards protecting the privacy of the temple mansion in which Aimee Semple McPherson lay ill, got on the nerves of her mother so badly today that she could remain silent no longer.

The mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, said, doctor's bulletins notwithstanding, that she believed Aimee was being held a virtual prisoner by jealous subordinates who hope to gain control of Angelus temple.

Mrs. Kennedy, who quarreled with her daughter several months ago and said that Aimee "smacked me down," had no more luck than anyone else in getting past the guards.

Aimee Is Prisoner

Despite "mass" suspicions that Aimee is a prisoner, her physician, Dr. Edward A. Williams, issued a bulletin today saying that she is laid at rest rumors that she is critically ill, but explained that she has suffered a partial collapse.

"Mrs. McPherson will not be able to resume her place for some time," the physician said. "But there is nothing organically wrong. I intend to prescribe a three month rest with no more traveling around. She is in practically the same condition as when she arrived from New York Saturday, a state of partial collapse as a result of prolonged strain."

Unable to get past the guards, Mrs. Kennedy contented herself (Continued on Page 8)

Physicians testified that the woman suffered from an incurable malady but that she had convinced that she had been healed through teachings of Mrs. McPherson's Angelus temple. She left all except one-fourth of her estate to the temple.

"It is evident that the will was made under the morbid delusion that she had to give all her property to Angelus temple to be cured," the judge said. Mrs. McAdams died in December, 1929.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 25.—UP.—Preliminary work to reduce unemployment was applauded and the necessity for its continuation was set forth with figures in a report of Will J. French, director of the California State department of public relations, to Gov. C. C. Young tonight.

First meetings of the governor's special unemployment committee and activities in San Francisco to provide new jobs were listed as examples of efforts being made to restore conditions to normal.

The city officials and a special citizens' committee have worked untiringly in San Francisco in behalf of the unemployed," the report said. "Appropriations have been made for civic improvements, so that men can secure an income. The good example can well be followed by other municipalities."

The report went on to quote the November, 1930, issue of the California Labor Market bulletin.

"It shows a marked decrease in employment and payrolls in California manufacturing establishments in October, 1930, compared with October, 1929, and with September, 1930. The same 810 representative establishments, which employed 183,798 workers in October, 1929, had only 149,402 employees in October 1930, a decrease of 34,397 or 18.7 percent. The total weekly payrolls were $5,723,195 in October, 1929, compared with $4,361,234 in October 1930, a reduction of $1,361,961, or 23.8 percent."

"In September 1930, these 810 places of employment had 168,564 workers, and in October 1930, they had 149,402 employees, a decrease of 19,162, or 11.4 percent. The total weekly payrolls, for the 810 factories, were $4,841,115 in September 1930, and $4,361,204 in October 1930. This shows a decrease of $479,911 or 9.9 percent in October compared with the preceding month."

EAST IN GRIP OF BLIZZARD

CHICAGO, Nov. 25.—UP.—A blizzard in time for Thanksgiving Day spread across the entire eastern half of the United States tonight.

By Thursday snow and sub-normal temperatures will congeal most of the nation from the Mississippi river to the Atlantic coast, the weather bureau predicted.

Snow already was falling in sheets in Chicago, with temperatures rapidly sinking down below the twenties. Stinging winds in the upper Michigan peninsula were drifting snow which had fallen to the depth of four or five inches.

Light snows elsewhere in the middlewest became heavier when the blasts from the Canadian Red River valley, cauldron where most of the violent blizzards were brewed, penetrated further south.

The weather bureau said that zero temperatures would be reached in the northwestern states and that the thermometer readings would gradually upward to freezing in southern Indiana.

Strong winds, meanwhile, hurled up the vast storm and sent it scudding east, deluging the country side with snow as it went.

The blizzard is traveling at express-train speed, stopping off long enough in the Ohio River valley tomorrow to give citizens there a real taste of winter, and then roaring away in time to pounce upon the Atlantic seaboard Thanksgiving Day, the Weather Bureau said. The eight municipal lodging houses were crowded to capacity in Chicago while hundreds of men sought shelter in police stations. One outlying station house reported an unofficial thermometer reading of ten degrees above zero.

GRID WAR AT UNIVERSITY HALTED

BERKELEY, Nov. 25.—UP.—Conferences to determine who shall succeed Clarence M. "Nibs" Price as head football coach of the University of California started tonight.

Price had insisted that friends halt their campaign to have him re-instated, thereby halting a re-prisal planned by members of the football team and opening the way for discussions about men capable of taking his place.

The list of prominent football men who might be approached and offered the position was increasing almost hourly. Unless the conjecture halts soon it will contain every "headline" coach of the country.

One of the nine men most prominently mentioned after Price's resignation Monday night is expected to receive the first bid, however. These prospects are:

Dick Hanley of Northwestern; Knute Rockne of Notre Dame; William "Lone Star" Dietz of Haskell; Wallace Wade of Alabama; William Alexander of Georgia Tech; "Doc" Spears of Oregon; Edward "Slip" Madigan of St. Mary's; and George G. Blinn of Illinois.

However, the Garfinkle boys came back in the second half, and kept the invaders goal in almost constant danger. Yet the Gifford athletes managed to keep ahead by sinking spectacular long and hole shots.

Johnson was high point man for the visitors, placing a total of eleven points to the credit of his team. George Weeks did the steady shooting for Richmond, his total being 10 credits.

Tonight the Richmond and Martinez Odd Fellows will clash in another special game in the Roosevelt gymnasium.

Aviators Must Be Bike Riders In Far North

SEATTLE, Nov. 25.—UP—Piloting an airplane isn't all a man must know to fly the Seattle-Alaska route of the Alaska Washington Airways. He must be an expert bicycle rider.

Planes flying from here to Ketchikan and points north must stop at Alert Bay, on the northern tip of Vancouver island, and the pilot must visit the custom's office to have his papers signed. It's three miles from the dock, where the seaplanes land, to the custom's office, and Canadian officials have provided a means of transportation—a bicycle—for the aviator.

The usual procedure in the flight to the northland is this: The plane is flown from Seattle to Alert Bay and taxied to the dock. The pilot climbs out, hops on the bicycle and pedals over the rough, three-mile course, has his papers signed and then starts back to his plane.

Some of the pilots have remarked that the most hazardous part of the Alaska flight is that six-mile bicycle jaunt. There has never been a forced landing of a plane, but pilots have had several forced landings from the two-wheeled bike.

Stimson Hits Germany Army Increase Plan

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—UP—Germany has appealed to the United States to be admitted to any conversations among the powers relative to a consultative pact to strengthen the Kellogg anti-war treaty. It has been learned authoritatively.

German Ambassador von Pfaffitz, it was learned, visited secretary of state Stimson Friday to request that Germany be admitted to the alleged conversations between the United States and Great Britain and France regarding the so-called consultative pact.

According to press reports, these conversations envisage summoning of a conference of Kellogg pact signatories in case arbitration fails to settle an international dispute.

Secretary Stimson denied such conversations were proceeding during the meeting of the powers at Geneva. However, Stimson is understood to have told the German ambassador that the United States government viewed with certain misgivings the German movement for equality of armaments in event disarmament negotiations failed.

Stimson hinted, it was learned, that the German plan to rebuild its military forces hardly coincides with the spirit of the Kellogg pact. Moreover, he emphasized that participation of the United States in the Geneva preparatory disarmament conference shows the interest of the United States in disarmament.

The German ambassador cabled a report of Secretary Stimson's remarks to Berlin where the German

CUBA, MEXICO FIGHTS FOR DIVORCES

HAVANA, Nov. 25.—UP—The annual American gold rush, "tourist variety," which engages Cuba and Mexico, more and more each winter, promises now to develop into a hand-to-hand struggle with Cuba having a slight edge because it has trumped Mexico's ace with a new divorce law.

The Aztec republic, which has drawn a full share of tourists and a horde of the unhappily married because it is known as a good place to undo the "I do's" of the altar, must now think up another trick, for Cuba's divorce statute, now being broadly discussed, is reputed to offer a quicker route to freedom than Mexico.

Add to this the fact that Cuba's decrees are absolutely legal in the United States, because this island nation is a signer of the Pan-American code which the United States recognizes, and it may be readily seen that Havana is expected to cut in heavily on an industry that has been almost exclusively Mexico's.

Mexico, on the other hand, where several various divorce laws are in force instead of one federal law similar to Cuba's new one, has faced the embarrassment of having a decree bounce back as illegal. The United States is not bound to recognize Mexican divorces because Mexico is not a signatory nation of the Pan-American code.

The possibility that a bigamy charge may follow Mexican decrees has tended to bolster Cuba's position, attorneys here believe. Meantime Cuba is not asking foreigners to establish residence here. And while Mexico is closer to the United States than Cuba, she is not as near the great population center as Havana, which is but 43 hours from New York.

Many Canadian Immigrants Return Home

MONTREAL, Nov. 25.—UP—Reports from New England communities that large numbers of French-Canadian residents, and residents of French-Canadian extraction, are returning to Canada, have been confirmed by J. E. La Force, colonization agent of the Canadian National railways.

Approximately 1,000 families have returned to the Province of Quebec and settled on farms since the assisted repatriation scheme went into effect in 1928, he says. Many of the repatriates had kept their farms, although they moved to the United States some years ago; others were settled on purchased farms.

In the first eight years, according to La Force's figures, 623 families were repatriated and placed on farms in the Province of Quebec.

La Force considers these families the best class of immigrants, as only those who have some resources of their own are granted assistance, given jointly by the federal and provincial governments. Each family averages $2,000 capital of their own, he finds.

Three thousand New England families are on the waiting list to be repatriated, and 3,000 more desire to return to Canada, but are unable to dispose of their property in the United States.

Many other French-Canadians, besides agricultural families, are returning but as they do not pass through a colonization office, their number is not accounted for by the colonization officials, according to La Force.

New Machine Designed To Test Asphalt

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—UP—A machine that deteriorates asphalt roofing material as much in a few days as months of exposure to the weather is the latest device used at the Bureau of Standards. It is used to speed up tests. If the samples are prepared and exposed to the weather, a long time must elapse before it can be learned whether or not they wear well. But with the machine, this information can be obtained quickly.

The device has been used by O. G. Stricker, research associate of the Asphalt Shingle and Roofing Institute. It consists of three carbon arc lamps operating at 220 volts and 13 amperes. Each lamp is surrounded by a cylinder with three-inch slots, in back of which are inserted the test panels. The entire cylinder is turned by a motor once in 20 minutes. Vertical water jets can be turned on, imitating light rain, while ordinary lawn sprinklers, with rotating arms, are used for vigorous spraying to stimulate hard rain. Because of the heat produced by the lamps, the cylinders are ordinarily kept at a temperature of 140 degrees, but a separate refrigerating unit can be used to cool them. In order to produce the effects of sudden temperature changes, Panels of asphalt coated on al-

Liquor Permits In Canada On Decrease, Report

TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 25.—UP—The general business depression is reflected in the issuance of fewer liquor permits during the first 12 days of the new permit year than during the same period of last year, according to Sir Henry Drayton, chairman of the Liquor Control Board of Ontario.

During the first 12 days of November, 47,131 resident permits were issued, 35,934 less than during the first 12 days of November, 1929. The figures include both of the Ontario government's two types of permits, two-dollar permits and one-dollar permits. The cheaper type is an innovation this year issued as an inducement to purchasers to drink wine and beer in preference to spirits.

Although the sale of liquor permits yield a considerable sum to the provincial treasury, Ontario government officials are gratified that fewer permits are being bought.

By means of the effects produced by weathering the asphalt samples they may be classified, and this is being checked with their chemical analysis.

ROBINSON IN MOVE TO END 'REVOLT'

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—UP—Democratic Senate Leader Joseph Robinson moved today to avert revolt within his party by again disavowing Republican policies and the record of the Hoover administration, but opposing a special session and calling for cooperation for passage of emergency depression relief bills this winter.

Faced with a new demand of Rep. John E. Rankin, Miss., a Democratic House leader, for a special session, Robinson called a conference with senators and representatives which tentatively agreed on a triple relief plan for increased road appropriations, a $60,000,000 seed and drought relief loan bill, and acceleration of the public buildings program.

Meanwhile, the legislative situation, cleared greatly by the promise that a house vote would be granted on Muscle Shoals and other controversial projects, was further smoothed over by the success of Senator Charles L. McNary, Repp., Ore., in getting farm leaders not to press for action on the debenture or equalization fee relief plans.

But for the Republican there came their first reprimand in the discussion of the "harmony armistice" proposed by seven Democratic leaders, including Robinson, pledging that Democrats would not obstruct legislation to force a special session. Rep. Will R. Wood, Repp., Ind., commenting on a speech by Democratic executive committee chairman J. Shouse last night said:

"He made it clear that the promised cooperation of the Democratic party in relieving the present situation will be much like that which he — apparently referring to Shouse — has given in the past." It is apparent that if this battle as to road faith is carried into the halls of congress, it will not be long before both parties are at each other's throat."

Rankin's new demand for a special session charged that the Republicans under House "czar" rules, would not permit the passage of necessary legislation which he said included the debenture, the Norris Muscle Shoals bill, cash payments on soldier compensation certificates, and unemployed relief. Rankin is not, however, the dominating leader of House Democrats, most of them following the leadership of Floor Leader John Garner.

World Blind Plan To Hold Big Meeting

NEW YORK CITY, Nov. 25.—UP—President Hoover has invited 52 nations to participate in a world conference on work for the blind in New York City next April. It has been announced by Robert E. Irwin, executive director of the American foundation for the blind, who is chairman of the organizing committee which is making arrangements for the gathering. Acceptances have been received already from 27 countries, according to Irwin.

"No international conference of workers for the blind has been held since the World War," said Irwin. "There is an urgent need for such a conference because the work on behalf of the blind in most parts of the world is in a critical stage just now."

The world conference on work for the blind has been called upon authorization by congress, and will be held under the auspices of the following organizations: American association of the blind, American association of instructors of the blind, and the American association of workers for the blind. M. C. Migel, president of the blind, is honorary chairman of the organizing committee. George L. Raverat, editor of the American Braille Press, is chairman of the program committee.

New Orleans Gets Mexico Books In Good Will Effort

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 25.—UP—A collection of books, reflecting the current literary trends, life and tradition of Mexico has been presented by Mexican publishers to the public library here. The present made at the suggestion of A. C. Amador, Mexican vice consul and himself an author of several books, will be tendered formally to the library by Amador and accepted by D. D. Moore, librarian.

Amador recently suggested to his government that such a gift would be desirable to inform Spanish reading persons here of modern life in the Mexican republic and asked it to invite the publishers to send the books.

This the publishers did. The first group, comprising some 60 volumes published by Manuel Leon Sanchez, S. A., and Claudio Franco Mexicana, S. A., already has arrived.

Amador has a wide acquaintance among the writers of Mexico and has followed with keen interest, he said here today.

Hoover Asks Cities To Aid War On Gangs

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—UP—An appeal from the White House today to local communities to shoulder the task of suppressing their racketeers and criminals sounded the key to President Hoover's policy in dealing not only with this major crime problem, but with the troublesome prohibition question.

As with crime, it is President Hoover's hopes that the state will take care of local prohibition troubles, leaving the federal government to concentrate on interstate and larger commercial bootlegging.

"What we need," President Hoover said today, "is a more wide spread public awakening to the failure of some local government to protect their citizens from murder, racketeering, corruption and other crimes, and their rallying of support to these localities that are today making courageous battles to clean up these places."

CHANGES MADE IN SPANISH CABINET

MADRID, Nov. 25.—UP—Shifts in the cabinet today were regarded as the immediate result of labor difficulties in the last 10 days which caused general strikes at Madrid, Barcelona and elsewhere throughout the country.

The changes included the resignation of one minister, the transfer of another to his post and the induction of a new member into the cabinet. King Alfonso acted quickly, accepting the resignation and appointments without delay.

The first intimation of changes in the cabinet came with the announcement that Gen. Enrique Marzo had resigned as minister of interior. General Marzo's resignation, as predicted by the United Press correspondent, was believed to have been a result of his attitude during the recent labor troubles.

Jose Estrada, formerly minister of justice, was appointed to succeed General Marzo, and months Jovellar, formerly under-secretary of interior, entered the cabinet as minister of justice.

It was reported that General Marzo's resignation followed a split with Premier Damaso Berenguer. It was indicated however that the premier had decided to place a civilian in office as minister of interior, and this appeared to be the more likely reason for the changes.

King Alfonso in accepting the general's resignation praised him for his work during the strikes.

LIVING CHILD PUZZLE IN COURT

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 25.—UP—Mrs. Pauline C. Stuerz' claim to a $25,000 estate hinges on the question of what constitutes a living child.

The question was raised in a Lincoln court in a case to settle a $25,000 estate of Henry J. Stuerz, husband of Mrs. Stuerz, who was killed several months prior to the birth of a child to Mrs. Stuerz in May, this year.

Determination of whether or not the child ever actually lived will be the deciding point in the division of the estate, the greater part of which consists of a judgment against the firm by which Stuerz was employed at the time of his accidental death.

Claims Half Estate
Mr. and Mrs. Casper Stuerz, father and mother of the child, contend they are entitled to one half of the estate on the ground the child never lived. The mother claimed that the baby was born alive and that she and the baby are the only heirs.

At the hearing, attorneys for the mother contended that heart action was sufficient proof of life, while attorneys for Mr. and Mrs. Casper Stuerz claimed proof of respiratory action was necessary to establish life.

Child Must Breathe
Dr. J. J. Loomis, who attended the mother at the hospital, testified that the child's heart beat for 10 to 20 minutes after birth. This, he claimed established life.

Dr. C. W. Beckerm maintained a child must breathe before it is alive. Dr. P. H. Bartholomew, director of the state board of health and custodian of vital statistics, introduced records made by Dr. Loomis in which he reported the child "still born." Loomis explained that he took the term to mean death of a child shortly after birth as well as the time of birth.

On the basis of this testimony, County Judge Robin R. Reid must determine the status of the child as an heir and the validity of the mother's claim to the estate.

The case, which was declared by Judge Reid to be without precedent in his court, despite a large number of cases involving posthumous births, has been taken under advisement.

Third Party Is Seen By Blease

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—UP—Sen. Coleman Livingston Blease, Democrat, South Carolina, says there will be a third party in 1932 with Calvin Coolidge, Franklin Roosevelt and William E. Borah running for president.

Blease, who was defeated in the primaries and will leave the senate Mar. 4, forges Coolidge and Sen. McNary, Republican, Oregon, as regular Republican nominees for president and vice president.

A party described by Blease as the "Wet Democracy" he believes, will nominate Roosevelt, governor of New York, and J. Hamilton Lewis, of Illinois.

Highway Beauty Drive Urged By Auto Association

Towns with the most attractive streets and beautiful highway approaches make the best impression upon motor tourists and win more visitors as permanent residents.

With the approach of California Fiesta Year of 1931 the importance of roadside beautification is greater than ever, it is pointed out by the California State Automobile association.

All communities in the state, particularly those which plan to offer celebrations and entertainments as part of the Fiesta Year program, are being urged to participate in a statewide clean-up and "beautify the roadside" movement.

The Fiesta Year preparations are sponsored by the California Newspaper Publishers' association. It is expected that publishers in all parts of the state will initiate or give impetus to the suggestion for a community housecleaning in their respective localities.

Auto Association To Conduct Safe Slogan Contest

An offer of cash awards for the best slogans to be used in connection with the program of monthly state-wide campaigns next year by the California committee on Public Safety was announced today. The object of the committee is to obtain an array of catchy phrases which will help to stimulate interest among motorists and the general public in improved observance of traffic regulations.

Attention will be centered during 1931 upon twelve distinct varieties of motor vehicle law violation, one for each month. For the best set of 12 slogans a cash prize of $100 will be awarded.

Three Slogan Sets
The second best set will receive $50 and the next ten sets will be given $10 each. Contestants may send their slogans to the Public Safety Department of the California State Automobile association, 150 Van Ness avenue, San Francisco. The contest closes December 15.

The committee has placed no limit on the number of words in a slogan, but suggests that the brevity is usually a feature of the most effective phrases, such as "taking a chance may take a life." The program of monthly campaigns upon which contestants are invited to base their slogans is as follows:

January—Failure to yield the right of way at intersections.

February—Unlawfully passing standing street cars.

Signal Slogan
March—Failure to give required arm signals; failure to keep in proper lane when turning, cutting in.

April—Excessive speed at intersections where view is obstructed.

May—Disobeying boulevard stop regulations—Stop and Go signals.

June—Endangering safety of children at play, speed or inattention.

Railroad Safety

July—Railway stop signals (wig-wags).

August—Failure to keep to the right—hogging the road.

September—Unlawful speed in school zones.

October—Inadequate brakes.

November—Glaring and illegal headlights.

December—Disobeying regulations for pedestrian protection.

Capones Are Lauded By Runaway Tot

CHICAGO, Nov. 25.—UP—Thirteen-year old Harold Green, who spent a day with "Scarface Al" Capone's family, was disconsolate at Juvenile Detention Home today, awaiting the arrival of his father by airplane to take him back home at Cleveland, O.

Harold, runaway, arrived in Chicago, looked up the Capone address, boarded a streetcar and finally presented himself at 7244 Prairie avenue, "Scarface Al's" younger sister, Mafalda, answered the bell.

"He isn't home," she said when Harold asked for "Mr. Scarface Al." Harold went away, became cold and hungry and in a few hours was back again.

Mafalda cooked Harold some bacon and eggs and entertained him until Matthew Capone, a brother, came home. Matthew told him it was true that some gangsters are millionaires, have fine estates and autos. Then he took him to a movie.

Mafalda put in a long distance call to Theodore Green, a fruit dealer in Cleveland, who is Harold's father. Alarmed over their son's new friends, the Greens promptly notified Chicago police.

When he and Matthew returned from the movie, Harold found two policemen awaiting to take him to the detention home.

"I don't want to go home. Send me back to the Capones. They are a good bunch," Harold sobbed today.

Educators Urge More Intelligent Marriages—And Some Young People Are Making Them

INTELLIGENT mating of human beings must be effected if we want intelligent leadership for future generations—that was the emphatic warning delivered the other day by Dr. Frank P. Graves, New York's State Commissioner of Education, in an address to the New Jersey State Teachers' Association at Atlantic City. More and better education for children, he continued, will raise their standards of intelligence when they reach the age of marriage.

Specific teaching to promote better marriages was also urged, on the same day at Atlantic City, by another educator, Charles A. Philhower, supervising principal of schools in Westfield, N. J. Addressing the second annual conference of school nurses, he said that the high schools should offer courses designed to remove the selection of husbands and wives from its present emotional basis and place it on a more scientific plane.

"Boys and girls," he declared, "should be given courses, having a regular place in the high school curricula, which would teach them what to expect and look for in their life mates, and give them certain standards by which to judge a man or woman."

Even if Mr. Philhower's educational-matrimonial plans are carried out in our high schools, a woman cannot help feeling that courtship will continue to be conducted on an emotional basis—while American youth is youth and love is love!

IT IS perfectly true, however, that marriages should be intelligent as well as emotional. Isn't it also true that really intelligent marriages in increasing numbers are being contracted by many young men and women?

Why do we think so? First, because girls are marrying younger—and, other things being equal, the youthful marriage (provided it is not TOO youthful) is the intelligent marriage, both for promoting the happiness of the married and for serving the future of the race.

It is most interesting to note, in the Groves and Ogburn "Study of American Marriage," that forty years ago, in 1890, only eighteen and one-half per cent of the population between the ages of fifteen and twenty-four were married. Ten years ago, in 1920, nearly twenty-three per cent married between those ages. Furthermore, in 1920, thirty-two per cent of American girls between fifteen and twenty-four were wives.

We believe, of course, that fifteen is too young for any girl to marry—even though Juliet was only fourteen! But the girls in the upper age level of this group—those between twenty and twenty-four—married, it seems to us, at quite the most intelligent moment. They were young enough to make easily the adjustment of personal traits and habits which marriage demands. They were of an age which, according to eugenic ideas, best fitted them to become healthy mothers of healthy children—even though they might continue to work for a few years outside the home, before the children came.

The willingness of many of such young wives to do such work is, it seems to us, another proof that they are intelligent matings. Rather than put it off, with the old-fashioned, unhealthy heart-breaking long engagement—"because we can't afford to marry yet"—modern boys and girls choose to wed when they are emotionally ready for each other; choose to work hard together, choose to live simply—together.

Moreover, these fifty-fifty marriages are not only intelligent in themselves; they are made by some of the most intelligent of the younger generation—the college girls, the college-and-professional-school boys, the very type who ought to found homes, to contribute to the welfare of the community and the race.

THEY could not marry, these youngsters, if the bride, like the bridegroom, were not ready to keep on with her paid job; if both in the home and out of it. Even as things are—and as white-collar salaries are—the young couple must live economically and take a chance. But they have more courage to do both because there are two wage-earners in the family instead of one.

The wife is such a contrast to the utterly "dependent" girl of yesterday, still an occasional survival, the edges they have cooked enough. Cayenne, tabasco sauce, lemon juice and chopped parsley are the favored seasonings for oysters in stews. Here is a recipe for highly seasoned creamed oysters that are delicious served in crostades.

CREAMED OYSTERS
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
2 cups rich milk
1/2 teaspoon salt
Dash of cayenne
3 or 4 drops tabasco
1 pint oysters, drained and quartered
1 egg yolk, beaten
1 teaspoon lemon juice

Melt the butter, add flour and blend well. Add the milk, a little at a time, stirring smooth after each addition, then add seasoning. Add the oysters and cook for a few minutes. Remove from the fire and beat in egg yolks to which lemon juice has been added. Serve at once in crostades, made as follows:

CROSTADES
Cut slices from a small loaf of bread from two to three inches thick. Scoop out the center, leaving a layer about one-quarter inch thick at the bottom. Brush inside and out with melted butter and place in a hot oven until crisp and golden brown.

Compromising With the Broken Wall Space

By Alma Zeiss

Dear Miss Zeiss:

I have just recently moved to a new apartment in which I have a bedroom that has such cut-up walls I can't do a thing in the way of arrangement. By the time I get the bed located on the only solid wall there seems to be no place left for the dressing table, chest and dresser, not to mention a good place for the boudoir chair.

I did not think of these things before I took the apartment, and am of course very sorry about it now. All I saw was that I was going to have a separate bedroom with a great big window in it, and even though the room was small, after four years of living in a bedroom with one small window backing up against the rear wall of another building, it seemed like heaven. Perhaps you could help me in some way.

My furniture is real pretty, consisting of a mahogany four-post bed, a dresser and sort of a highboy chest. The dressing table is an odd piece in mahogany but looks very well in the room and I would like to keep it. It is forty-two inches long, and narrow, with little drawers down each side and a sunken center part with mirror attached.

If you could be so kind as to also give me suggestions for color and other decoration in this room I would be most grateful. But my real worry is how to put the furniture. Thank you very much for your kind attention.

(MISS R. P.)
I know I shouldn't have the dressing table sitting slantwise, but there seems no place else for it. If I put it straight it sticks out beyond the window or door. I also do not like the high chest over there by the window. It makes me feel like things were falling down on me every time I step in the room, but the only other place I can see for it would be where the boudoir chair is, and then it would have to stand slantwise and at that it would interfere with the door. I also fixed the room with the bed pushed near the window and the chest up in that corner of the room, but didn't like it. So if you can help me to get a good arrangement out of this mess I will certainly be grateful.

ALF the battle in decoration is in knowing how to make friends with offending architectural features, and if necessary, in order to make the most of what they have to give us, how to adjust our more flexible possessions to comply with their unchangeable demands.

On the day after taking possession of this bedroom which was to bring her so much happiness because of its broad window we can picture Miss P. pushing and pulling the different pieces from this corner to that, striving to help the window to make its best impression . . . falling miserably because of the cold, overbearing presence of the dark wood chest and the dressing table angled in the corner. Measure and fit as she will she cannot place to advantage that long dressing table in its present form. If she wants to retain it she must agree to part with some of its original features in order to achieve a thoroughly charming, comfortable result in this small room which, nevertheless, has . . . possibilities.

It is of advantage to print the original floor plan for comparison with the illustration and the diagram.

The illustration shows an unus-

of rearrangement, for a study of the two will make very clear the window of cheerful compromise when the fixed features of a room demand it. Comparing the two layouts, who would not gladly accept the colorful and very feminine dressing table with its standing mirror and top in exchange for the natural wood piece which must stand awkwardly in the corner? The broad window has far greater possibilities for effective decoration than any single piece of furniture. If it is between the window and the door, the dressing table can be made to fit over it, and in this case an asbestos pad should be placed between the radiator and the under side of the table top.

Now we have the most unmanageable piece out of the way, where it should stand one enters. A decorative screen used in the position indicated against the wall would also help to soften the effect of the several openings and provide a balancing tall piece for the high chest. The mirror removed from the dressing table may be of a good size to use over the chest or over the door. It can be set down and fitted with a narrow silver or gold frame with a back standard to make it suitable for the remodeled table.

Must Every Child Eat Spinach?

"MONROE, eat your spinach. But it's good for you. Don't you want to grow strong like Babe Ruth?" Monroe takes a nibble. "Well, go on. I'll tell your father if you don't eat that spinach." Another speck of the detested food finds its way to the child's mouth. "Monroe, I'm getting angry, and I won't take you to the movies unless you hurry up and eat your spinach." Monroe takes a couple of spoonfuls and immediately vomits them up. Thus ends the scene for this day; but, no doubt, it will be repeated on the morrow. In the meantime Monroe's distaste for spinach is growing to be an absolute aversion. The mere mention of this vegetable makes cold chills go up and down his back!

Is Monroe's food, taken under such unpleasant conditions, doing him any good? Wouldn't a crust of bread eaten peacefully prove far more nourishing? Because the doctor or the book says that children should eat spinach is no reason for cramming it down every young one's throat. Where there is an actual dislike of a specific food, a substitute of equal value can nearly always be found. Or, at times, the distasteful food can be youngsters who dislike cooked cereals is delighted to eat them when they take the form of puddings. Another child who is not fond of eggs eats them without recognition when they are put into his soup. It seems to me that every one is entitled to one or two food prejudices.

Of course, when this is carried to an extreme, we shall probably have to handle the matter differently. One mother tells me that her daughter refuses all vegetables! If we introduce new foods into the child's diet very gradually, and if we insist upon his taking a taste of all novel foodstuffs, these wholesale aversions will rarely occur. Sometimes, children mimic food cranks in the family. If father turns up his nose at this and that, junior is very apt to follow his example. When an adult is on a diet, the children should understand that the diet is enforced and not a matter of choice. The first thing we ought to do, when young ones are overfussy about their food, is to see that they bring healthy appetites to the table. And then, I think it is advisable to refuse second helpings of liked foods until the less liked ones have been eaten.

We can't afford to spoil our children by catering to them overmuch, nor can we allow them to go without needed nutriment for any length of time; but within reasonable limits we should respect their likes and dislikes.

When You Go Marketing

Do not accept sprouting potatoes; have one cut in half, then press the two parts together; if they are juicy enough to stick together you have good potatoes.

Do not buy tomatoes that have decayed, bruised or green spots; choose those that are firm, smooth and evenly red.

OUR OWN EXPERT EXPLANATION

WHAT was the matter with yesterday's stock market? Considering the brokers are dying of starvation, yesterday's market was rather heavy. News that the Prime Minister of Siam had a touch of his old neuritis made Wall Street very jumpy. Failure of the caraway seed crop in Egypt also tended to depress industrial shares. Charles M. Schwab is scheduled to make a speech before the Wholesale Herring Dealers' Association tomorrow night, however, and this is counted on to hold securities firm the next day.

Expert opinion is that the bottom of the market has been reached. If quotations go any lower it is because the bears are taking a parting shot at the market. If the dominant issues fall to show any kind of a rally, it's because there is a wave of profit-taking. If the market takes a healthy swing upward, it's because the trusts are buying for investment. Every little movement has a meaning all its own, and you can count on us financial experts to explain it.

Car loadings fell off last month, but this is only because freight handlers are not as skillful as they used to be. Just as soon as they start packing freight cars so there is no waste space, business will immediately improve.

It is a healthy sign that car loadings in the New York subway are running 17 per cent ahead of last year. This is due to the resourcefulness of the management in leaving more empty cars in the yards. By the time the Christmas shopping rush is on car loadings in the New York subway will be so heavy that a passenger wanting to get off in Harlem will have to start pushing for the door at 14th Street. This is a cause for optimism among the shrewdest traders.

The leading industrialists took a nose dive on the Exchange yesterday on receipt of the news that Chinese bandits had lost another battle on the Manchurian front. A hopeful rally in public utilities was checked when Consolidated Miniature Golf Courses passed its dividend. A blizzard in Manitoba was the contributing factor in driving International Toothpaste down.

A seasonal improvement should help shares to climb shortly, however. The holiday shopping drive will soon be here, which will bring out the reserve strength of bums, beggars and panhandlers. This will result in a big move in coppers and nickels and may even affect the dimes.

Signs of optimism in Milwaukee, where breweries are being readied for business, will certainly cause a boom in ralls, especially the brass ones. There will also be renewed activity in Allied Cuspidors. A forward movement in opening more bars and speakeasies should lead to a run in Plate Glass and Mirror to a new peak and will create a new high for Procter & Gamble common if the speak-easy mirrors are to be decorated with soap designs.

Yesterday's depression in motors was largely due to the rumor that King Carol had given Mme. Lupescu a corner stand. This sent some of the motor stocks crashing and also created a lack of confidence in all and metal shares. The sharp recession in smelting securities was due to a touch of lumbago felt by one of the Guggenheims. The rumor did not say which one, which left the market even more uneasy.

Resumption of the Waltham, Waterbury and Elgin companies in making watches sympathetically helped the chain stores. They climbed 3/16ths and only fell back a point and a half. Economists now believe the worst is all over and predict fresh southwest-erly winds for tomorrow, with moderate profit taking.

THIS AND THAT

Suing Gene Tunney is now our fourth largest industry.

Not the least sensational overturn between November, 1928, and November, 1930, is Mrs. Willebrandt somersaulting from a bone dry orator to legal counsel for California's vineyardists in that time.

A contract bridge expert is not worth $8 an hour when you can still nudge your partner under the table.

A new machine in New Jersey milks fifty cows at one time. If it's a success the fake stock promoters will adopt it.

A tourist company is offering a voyage to the South Pole as a pleasure trip next summer. It's just the tour for a college boy who can't bear to put his raccoon coat in storage.

Pop Warner, the daddy of all football coaches, has finally come out for the shift. Most people thought Pop's team this year was already shifted in reverse.

If there are any doubts in your mind about foods that are popular with men, just drop into any of the lunch rooms in the Grand Central district or in the financial district. You will find that their choice in many cases for this season is oysters. Broiled oysters, baked oysters, raw oysters, oyster stew; oysters of all sizes and cooked in a variety of ways have all but crowded out other items off the menu.

In ordering oysters often they are not inspired only by their liking for them, but if they were following the dictates of dietitians they could make no better choice. Oysters are easily digested, nutritious and wholesome and are rich in elements of importance in the diet.

Long Island oysters are grown and distributed directly under the supervision of the Federal Health Service and the New York City Board of Health. Right inspection assures the housewife of getting oysters in perfect condition.

The cook who has little or no experience in cooking oysters must guard against overcooking them. In most cases they need only to be heated through. As soon as they become plump and slightly ruffled at the edges they have cooked enough. Cayenne, tabasco sauce, lemon juice and chopped parsley are the favored seasonings for oysters in stews. Here is a recipe for highly seasoned creamed oysters that are delicious served in crostades.

2 tablespoons flour
2 cups rich milk
1/2 teaspoon salt
Dash of cayenne
3 or 4 drops tabasco
1 pint oysters, drained and quartered
1 egg yolk, beaten
1 teaspoon lemon juice

PLANS MADE FOR ELKS BIG SHOW

Reservations for the Elks charity show "Rollin' Along" to be given in Richmond Union high school auditorium Dec. 4 and 5 will first be made Saturday at 1 p. m. in the Elks building, 927 Macdonald avenue, the ticket committee announced last night.

Edgar Dale, chairman of the ticket committee said that a large number of persons will probably be in line, but there will be enough good seats for those who will not be able to get there, for the auditorium which seats 1600 will be available the two nights.

No tickets will be reserved previous to Saturday and all reservations must be made at the ticket office. A box office will be open at the auditorium show night, while the office on Macdonald avenue will be open daily from Saturday until show time.

Under the direction of Earl Caldwell rehearsals are being held several times a week and the show is being whipped into good shape. Assisting Caldwell in the minstrel which opens the show is Al Newman, a favorite in the past Elks productions. Newman, who is a master in announcing and playing jokes, will also sing a number of songs.

Between the acts Matilda Meyer will present some of her kiddies in dancing and musical numbers. These youngsters have proved their ability in the past and their work is said to rank with that of professionals.

Final act takes place in Hamburg in the Heidelberg Inn where Elks touring Europe are entertained by barmaids in their native dances and songs.

Much opportunity for comedy will be given Charles Drake and Frank Tiller. Music during the act consists of solos, duets and choral pieces, while the barmaids under direction of Matilda Meyer have several dance skits.

Elks are sparing nothing in the way of scenery and costumes as a setting for the production. Proceeds from the show will go into the Elks charity fund to be used in aiding the spreading of Christmas cheer.

Where does the world stand on Telephones?
And how many will your telephone reach?

A RECENT world-wide count indicates that there are 35 million telephones in the service of mankind.

Your telephone can be connected with 88% of these—with 20 million in the United States and with nearly 11 million in foreign lands.

Today there is a telephone for every 6 people in the United States. On the Pacific Coast there's nearly one telephone to each 5 people. Each year extends the horizons of your telephone's usefulness. It is already possible to telephone to ships at sea. Widened use of this service will undoubtedly come. And the distant islands and shores of the Pacific will next be brought into telephone connection, according to plans now afoot.

Auto Licenses May Be Received After Dec. 15

Beginning December 15 and continuing to January 15, renewal of California motor vehicle registration and issuance of 1931 license plates will be conducted. More than two million motor car owners in the state will be required to go through the annual formalities of the registration period.

A license renewal service will be conducted by the California State Automobile association through its San Francisco headquarters and thirty-one district offices throughout northern and central California. In order to avoid delay and inconvenience in obtaining new plates the association in a statement today advises all motorists whose white slip certificates of registration have been lost or mutilated to apply without further delay for new certificates.

The state division of motor vehicles in Sacramento will accept mail applications for licenses to be delivered by mail before the close of the renewal period.

Application for renewal of registration is made by presentation of the 1930 white certificate of registration. The pink certificate is not necessary for renewal.

The fee for renewal is still $3 for all pleasure cars.

Commercial cars pay in addition to the regular $3 registration fee, a graduated scale of weight fees.

with questioning them about a "black box the size of a coffin shaped like one," she said was carried from Aimee's house, in the rear of the temple.

"It had a New York-Smyrna sticker on it and I want to know what they were doing with it," she said.

Is Prisoner
In making her charge that Aimee is a prisoner, Mrs. Kennedy spoke against F. C. Winters, business manager at the temple since she quarreled with her daughter. She said that he was one of those who want to get control of Angelus temple.

"A woman worker told me that she had intended to take a vacation in Colorado but that she was told to stay around and see the fireworks," Mrs. Kennedy claimed. "After I saw that black box I pinned Mr. Winters down about Aimee. He admitted that she was not carried from the train Saturday on a stretcher. Then a little later he said she had swooned and had been carried off in a chair. Why that box was big enough for them to have smuggled Aimee away from the house in."

Mrs. Kennedy admitted the box probably was one her daughter had brought from Europe after her tour, but said she was determined to find out why it was being carried around now. She refused to see any humor in the situation, insisting her daughter had reached a crisis in her affairs.

Apples Given To Aid Unemployed

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 25.—Police were called today to restore order when a carload of apples was opened for the needy.

More than 500 persons were on hand when the car doors were swung open and 1400 bushels of apples distributed to the crowd. Two negroes grabbed baskets full and drove away in a taxi. Many came in trucks to get their share.

SLAYER KILLED BY SHERIFF'S POSSE

EUGENE, Ore., Nov. 25.—UP—Ray "Vic" Sutherland, fugitive, murderer of two Marcola peace officers, was shot and killed by a sheriff posse near West Fir, about 25 miles from Marcola, today.

It was said that Deputy Sheriff Carlile and a small posse had been quietly beating the brush around West Fir for the past ten days in an effort to find Sutherland's trail. This morning they found it.

The posse, composed of about ten men and led by Carlile, quietly approached Sutherland's hang-out. The fugitive heard them coming and, true to his threat that he'd "never be captured," reached for his guns and began firing.

Two shots, fired simultaneously by Carlile and his son, Lester, ended the slayer's life—one of them penetrating Sutherland's brain and the other his heart. Sutherland shot and killed Oscar Duley and Joe Saunders, Marcola, Ore., peace officers, on August 25, when they attempted to arrest Sutherland's son, Vaude as he was selling moonshine liquor to the occupants of a parked car. Sutherland, hidden in brush alongside the road, opened fire, instantly killing Duley.

Saunders was killed later the same day when he, in company with others entered Sutherland's cabin. Sutherland was there and opened fire, killing Saunders and seriously injuring Lee Brown and Rodney Rich, who later recovered, before he made his escape.

Attacked Negro Workers Jailed For Safe Keeping

COUCRATTA, La., Nov. 25.—UP—A group of 40 negroes, driven from a construction camp where they were working by a crowd of white men who hurled dynamite to frighten them, tonight were reported housed temporarily in the old river parish jail for safe keeping.

The armed citizens visited the construction camp last night, it was learned today, and warned the negroes to leave the vicinity in order that white men, now unemployed, might obtain work, officers said.

They exploded sticks of dynamite near the camp to frighten the negroes. No one was injured. The citizens had visited the camp earlier in the day, armed with shotguns and revolvers, when they returned last night and found the negroes still at work. They bombed the camp with sticks of dynamite.

The negroes fled and were reported to have taken refuge in the parish jail.

Members of the state legislature from the Coushatta territory today made a plea to the road contractor of employ only local white labor at his camp.

Petaim Asks To Be Buried With French War Dead

PARIS, Nov. 25.—UP—The wish of Marshal Petaim, heroic defender of Verdun, that upon his death he be buried among the half-million French soldiers, sacrificed in repeated repulses of German attacks and now lie in battlefields cemeteries there, may prove difficult.

The government has pointed out that a special decree would be necessary before Petaim can be buried among his men. By law, there have been no burials in the battlefields since October 1919.

The law stated specifically that only soldiers who died in the service between August 2, 1914, and October 24, 1919, could be buried in the army cemeteries.

It was pointed out at the Ministry of Pensions, today, that, an exception may be made in the case of Marshal Petaim, however.

Petaim, now 74, was a colonel when the war broke out. By June, 1915, he was already in command of the Second Army, and in February 1916 when the Crown Prince started his drives on Verdun, Petaim was sent to organize the defense. A vigorous leader, Petaim soon turned a hopeless situation into a rousing victory.

TICKET WAR CONFESSION IN BOMB PLOT AT TACOMA

NEW YORK—UP—A majority of the managers and producers of the legitimate theater in New York organized this summer as the League of New York Theaters, with the purpose of shielding the ticket buying public from predatory speculators, and thereby precipitated one of the grandest mixups on Broadway.

Every day since the present theatrical season opened has seen new developments in this move to prevent ticket overcharges, and now the League has secured the facilities of the Postal Telegraph Cable company to aid in the sale of tickets for shows produced by its members, or housed in theaters controlled by them.

The best that can be made of the resulting complication is to recount the activities of the League from its inception.

Members of the League control over fifty of New York's seventy-odd legitimate theaters. Originally 15 ticket brokers were allied with the League, these brokers pledging not to charge over 75 cents for service on each ticket, and not to make "buys" on shows.

When a speculator makes a "buy" he guarantees a producer to buy so many tickets for his show for so many weeks. In some cases these "buys" were life savers for the producers.

Tickets Allocated
Under the new system the accredited brokers did buy tickets outright. They received a certain allotment, and any tickets not sold might be returned to the theater box office an hour or so before curtain time.

There were troubles from the start. Those ticket brokers not included on the accredited league list, raised a rumpus and sought to have the League's charter taken away by the state on various grounds. Those speculators remained in business by "digging" tickets for league-controlled shows from the box offices and from the accredited brokers themselves.

There were also dissatisfied producers. George White and Ted Harris, outstanding in the field, balked at joining the League, maintaining it wouldn't work and suggesting that, if the League was serious about abolishing speculators, all tickets should be sold from the box offices. A central ticket agency also was suggested. Florenz Ziegfeld and R. V. Newman were others who refused to join.

20 Custom Guards Held For Bribery

DETROIT, Nov. 25.—UP—The Detroit Free Press will say tomorrow that 20 or more United States custom officers were arrested here Tuesday on charges of accepting bribes to allow passage of liquor boats across the Detroit river.

Arrests were made by special treasury department agents working out of Washington, the article will say. Warrants will be served it adds, unless "satisfactory explanations can be offered by the officers of certain actions."

Collector of Customs Heinrich L. Pickert, the only federal official here who would comment, said there were "several men being held."

RED PLOTTER CONFESSES TO COURT

MOSCOW, Nov. 25.—UP—Eight prominent Russian engineers on trial for their lives entered pleas of guilty tonight to charges of complicity in a purported international plot for a war of intervention against Soviet Russia.

Prof. Leonid Ramzin, the first to testify, then declared that high officials in France, including members of the French general staff, had organized the interventionist movement.

He confessed his guilt to participation in this movement to a shocked, tense, packed court room filled with men and women who regarded him and his co-defendants as doomed men.

Ramzin's testimony, Aristide Briand, the French foreign minister, Raymond former premier, and French statesman, and the French general staff.

He declared in a calm, tone, as he outlined details of the alleged plot, that the French general staff entered the plot in 1927, with intervention planned for the following year. The move to intervene in Soviet Russia, however, for one reason or another, was repeatedly postponed, he said.

Ramzin, former member of the textile syndicate and widely known as an engineering expert, stepped up to the microphone arranged at the trial and for three hours told his story to the judges and the world. His pedagogical experience proved useful as he faced the radio apparatus under glaring lights in the red-draped ballroom being used for the trial to admit his guilt.

The professor, 43, and youthful looking, clean shaven, with a sheaf of blonde hair, talked bravely, like a man used to lecturing. He spoke at the conclusion of the reading of the indictment against him and the seven other defendants. The prisoners sat in their box, the only section of the platform in the court not draped in red. It was covered with dull grey cloth.
